

Legislation should not be used as a surrogate for proper parenting. The vast majority of modern televisions are enabled with the capacity to alter the channel they are tuned to, and even with on/off switches. I suggest parents familiarize themselves with these technological advances and utilize them prior to suggesting or supporting legislation that even approaches infringement of freedom of speech.